

8. DO YOU FANCY WAG HAIR FOR JUST £25? Bad hair days? Forget about them

Jenny hadn't anticipated a hurricane

We've always wanted hair extensions but been too skint to get them, but now we've discovered new Verlocke Zip&Go hair extensions, that's about to change. They sound amazing and Nadine Coyle's sister, Rachael, is such a big fan she's been asked to be their 'face'.

Instead of using glue and chemicals these extensions have tiny compressing rings, which means they're much healthier for your hair.

When we chatted to Rachael she said: 'There are so many options with the new Zip&Go extensions. You have them put in at a salon and they're very soft and comfortable. I've had mine in for about three months.'

We got more reader Aileen, 22, from Ireland to test them
'I've tried so many extensions and these are the best. They take just under an hour to be put in by a professional and they wash like your normal hair. They don't moult and you can use tongs and straighteners on them. They're also really light. They're brilliant.'

And even better is the price, you can have 50 hair strands fitted, from £24.95, measuring from 30cm to 100cm – yes, that's a whole extra metre of hair for you to flick about. Imagine.

If you fancy trying them go to www.verlocke.co.uk.

9. WHAT'S PARIS UP TO NOW?

Never one to knowingly let a trend pass her by Paris Hilton now also has her very own range of hair extensions called The Bandit. And they're clever, this lot, because as you might have guessed by the title, the hair is attached to a headband. Genius. And what makes them even more unusual is you can also use them to go from long hair to short. To get your hands on some, check out www.parisandsally.com.
